Sods are the cream of the soil containing the very elements of plant food that make soil so productive. When properly rotted this material makes one of the best invigorators to be found for trees, vines, vegetables, and cereals, and is one of the most readily and cheap ly obtained fertilizers in use. Sods may be gathered from the fence corners or tilled fields, gathered from the surface after plowing and harrowing sward land, and in many places from the roadside when the hghway is undergoing repairs. To utilize sods and secure from them their best fertilizing effects, they should be gathered and piled in some out of the way place, downward, and the whole covered with ashes or chip-dust or both, to keep the grass from growing. A year or two will be required for them to thoroughly decay, unless cut down and shovel d over after laying long enough for the grass to be entirely killed out. Water should be applied at intervals sufficient to keep the pile moist and prevent a dry mouldy rot. The best way to provide for the wetting down is to leave the top cupping and apply the was To get such a lot of good material in best shape for applying to crops. we would advise mixing it with good well rotted barn-yard manure-Say about two loads of it to one of the manure, then spread it broad east on grass and crops of small grain for corn or vegetables apply it in the hills or drills

Rushes.

Rushes are found in almost every place in the British Islands; and in both cold and temperate quarters, at howe and abroad, they are pien tiful. Before the introduction of tallow candles in this country, rushes were used by these both in high and low stations Rushlights are still sold by our chandler, and are used by the very poor, or for night-lights in sick-rooms. Among the pearantry in the country districts, we have often met with rushlights in numbers. The poor dip the rushes in any kind of grease or melted fat they can procure. Formerly, in marmers or gentleman-farmers' houses they twisted great numbers of rushes togeths er in Ireland, sometimes to the bulk of a man's arm, for light-houses or torches. The common hard rush is still usedin country placestor tying up bundles of flowers, being previously bleached a little. The bulrush and the lesser bulrush are used for mats, footstools, seats for chairs, for baskets and for horsecollars, in Ireland; and in some of the midland districts of England, they make rope of the peel. The pith of tulrushes is used for earn dles. We have seen ropes and plaited whips, boys' whips and horse whips made from bulrushes, some being ingenius plaiting and matting for ornamental purposes. We have known it to be used (the soft rush) for that ching cottages or cornstacks, and some of the very poor have used it for stuffing beds. Rushes of all species are a very useful order of plants, and may be utilized in a variety of ways, many still unthought of. It is quite possible that a very useful paper might he made from rushes as well as from Esparto grass or wood. We hope the numble and despised rush or buirnsh, which has a history as old as Moses, will soon receive more attention than it has hitherto obtained. This very useful plant has passed into a proverb, and is used in derision to express contempt, as, 'I don't care a rush about 27 Stops, 10 Sats Roeds, $90.

Dr. Rush's Medical Association:

Dear Doctors—The three bottles of '-Dr. Rush's

Regulator' I ordered were received by express last week. I have taken nearly one bottle and am thoroughly satisfied with the result. For over two years I have been troubled with sharp pain at my heart. My physician, upon examination, pronounced it enlargement of the heart, and was unable to give me any relief. The trouble grew worse, until I had become convinced that I could not be cured. While in New York City, last week I called on one of the most prominent physicians there, who charged me $25 for an examination and then recommended your "figulator," Knowing you to be a regular Medical Association, and not a patent modicine scheme, I or dered the threbottles. I have not been troubled since I commenced taking it, but shall continue and take the entire three bottles so as to obtain a permanent cure. You have my sincere thanks. I am, gentlemen,
